Next Sunday Is Mothers' Day.

A white flower, emblem of purity, will be worn by all observers of "Mothers' Day," which will be celebrated throughout the country on the second Sunday in May. The idea of a national memorial day on which all persons, irrespective of race or creed, may honor the living mothers and recall memories of mothers that are gone, was conceived by Miss Anne Jarvis of 2031 North Twelfth Street, Philadelphia. Her original idea embrace simultaneous observance in every part of the world of the love and reverence which all men and women owe their mothers. The white carnation was especially chosen because of its whiteness, which stands for purity, its form and fragrance representing beauty and love, its wide field of growth and lasting qualities symbolizing charity and faithfulness—all true mother virtues. The purpose of this international honor to "mother" has been indorsed by leading men in the political and religious life of the world, by lodge societies, churches and schools.
